4. Sales Data Analysis

You have the following data in MS Excel:

Month 1: 10 leads, 2 sales

Month 2: 12 leads, 3 sales

Month 3: 15 leads, 5 sales

Analyze the trend and provide a brief interpretation of the sales performance over these three months.

Trend Analysis

- Leads: Increasing, Sales: Increasing, Conversion Rate: Increasing.
- Month 1: 2 sales (20% conversion rate), Month 2: 3 sales (25% conversion rate), Month 3: 5 sales (33% conversion rate)

Interpretation:

The sales conversion rate is also improving, rising from 20% in Month 1 to 25% in Month 2, and then to 33% in Month 3. This shows that not only are leads increasing, but a higher percentage of leads are converting into sales, indicating improved effectiveness in turning leads into customers.
